Prayers for Teens: Fourth Sunday of Lent 3/6

We know this story of the prodigal son. Like the useless fig tree in last week's Gospel, this son is good for nothing. He behaves badly with a sense of entitlement, and blows his father's hard-earned cash. But that father! He doesn't make any sense at all. Why doesn't he punish this kid, or teach him a lesson? He is the most surprising character in this parable. He shows how God works in relation to us. It's not about fairness, it's about love. Luke 15: 11-13,17-20. (Sunday Prayers for Teens, LTP 2015-2016)

On the Way Home from Mass - Why was the father so happy when the son returned home? How did the father treat him? Is forgiveness fair? (Celebrating Sunday's for Catholic Families 2015-16, LTP)

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — For a Christian, talk is cheap; the faith requires concretely doing God’s will and serving the least as well as those around you, Pope Francis said at his morning Mass. “God is concrete” and so is the Christian life, he said Feb. 23 during the Mass in the chapel of the Domus Sanctae Marthae. Christianity isn’t a religion that’s all talk because “just talking leads us to vanity, to pretending to be Christian,” he said. The day’s reading from the Gospel of Matthew (23:1-12) describes Jesus telling the crowds and disciples to beware of the scribes and Pharisees, who have taken on the authority to teach but do not live as good role models. “For they preach, but they do not practice,” Jesus says. This kind of hypocrisy still exists, the pope said, according to Vatican Radio. “How many times we meet people — including us, you know — so often in the church (who say) ‘Oh, I am very Catholic!’” But, the pope said, look at how they live their lives. “How many parents say they are Catholic, but they never have time to talk to their own kids, to play with their own kids, to listen to their own kids. Perhaps their parents are in a retirement home, but they are always busy and they can never go visit them and they leave them abandoned,” he said. These people may justify themselves by saying, “Well, I am very Catholic, you know. I belong to this group.’ This is the religion of all talk. I say I am this, but I do what’s worldly.” Talking without doing “is a deception,” he said. This path “leads us to where these doctors of the law were, these clerics, who like to dress and act as if they were royalty, you know? This is not the reality of the Gospel,” the pope said. God wants people to stop doing evil and to learn to do the good, he said. “Being Christian means doing — doing God’s will.” On judgment day, he said, “what will the Lord ask us? Will he say to us: ‘What have you said about me?’ No! He will ask about the things we have done.” Fulfilling the deeds listed in the Gospel of Matthew’s “The Judgment of Nations,” such as clothing, feeding and caring for those in need, welcoming the stranger and visiting the imprisoned, “is the Christian life,” he said. The pope prayed, “May the Lord give us this wisdom to understand fully what the difference is between saying and doing and teach us the path of doing.” By Carol Glatz (2016 Catholic News Service Conf of Catholic Bishops.www.catholicnews.com)

ALL ARE WELCOME: March 17, 2016, a dinner will be offered to start the celebration of our patron saint, Saint Patrick. Dinner is a 5:30 P.M. in Makley Hall and Mass will be celebrated at 7:00 P.M. by Father Ken Baker. Coopers are making their famous corned beef and we add in fried chicken, coleslaw, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, cake and cookies and drinks. Help with clean up is appreciated!

FORGIVENESS: May God attend you in times of regret, those times when you look back upon your day, your life, with sorrow and “if only” on your lips. May you experience God’s understanding gaze and hear the whisper of love. May God once and for all relieve you of the burden of regret and replace it with freedom that comes with forgiveness. And may your freed spirit be invitation to those around you to choose and celebrate life. May the God of FORGIVENESS bless you. By Sr Maxine Shonk OP

ONE FAITH, ONE HOPE, ONE LOVE CAMPAIGN

We are overjoyed to report that the latest figures on the archdiocesan campaign total $577,840 in pledges and gifts. This is 128% of the parish target of $450,000. Thank you so much for your generosity. This means that $76, 200 additional will be coming back to St. Patrick’s for our parish needs, in addition to $90,000 from the original goal, for a total of $166,200. All this without having to run a special campaign for capital funds at St. Patrick’s. WE will receive payments as these pledges are paid semiannually for the next five years, the duration of the campaign. We already received our first reimbursement of nearly $10,000 in early February. Any further questions or payments to the campaign should be directed to the campaign office in Cincinnati rather than to the parish office.
