Prayers for Teens:

Each of us has to answer this most important question for ourselves. Imagine Jesus asking you, "Who am I . . . to you?" Is Jesus a nice man who did good deeds? a wise teacher? a prophet? a friend and guide? Our faith teaches that Jesus is the one we follow, the one who saved us. Write down five words that describe Jesus. Each day this week look at the list and add or eliminate words to make it more precise answer to the question, "Who do you say that I am?" Luke 9:18-24 (Sunday Prayers for Teens, LTP 2015-2016)

On the Way Home from Mass - Jesus loved exceedingly and want us to do the same.

Does that make our life easy or hard?
 (Celebrating Sunday's for Catholic Families 2015-16, LTP)

This month on June 17, our nation will celebrate its fortieth official Father's Day. It's our big chance to say thank you to the men who inspire us, who call us to be more, and who provided love and support for us. It is an astounding irony that the first Father's Day was celebrated in June 1972. Abortion was legalized in this country just seven months later! Is this perhaps an invitation and a reminder for us men to be better fathers?

FOR ALL TRUE FATHERS OUT THERE by Josua Danis
 Unless you have been camped out under a rock for the last few decades, you are probably aware of the fact that fatherhood is in a state of dangerous decline. Data the US Census Bureau in 2011 found that one out of every three children is living away from their biological father. Research indicates that living without a clear father figure leads to an increased likelihood of poverty, depression, child abuse, and future criminal activity. I remember when it used to be so common to hear celebrities complaining about how demanding their father could be. Now, it is far more common to hear about fathers who weren't at all demanding, because they weren't even round. With single parenting still on the rise and the question of gay adoption getting evermore attention, we have to ask the question, will future generations have any social concept of sacrificial fatherhood? But I know they will, because of you, Dad. I believe fatherhood will be known in the future because you put your children ahead of your career, your golf-game, and even your own dreams. You committed to love one woman for the whole of your life, even when it would have been a lot easier to just run away. You gave up your boyhood when duty called upon you to become a man. I believe the future will know the face of fatherhood because you were not willing to settle for just being my friend. You were willing to challenge me... to punish me... to forgive me... teach me right from wrong... to patiently draw the man out of your son and the woman out of your daughter. You were willing to spend time with me when the television would have been more interesting. You were willing to pray... to teach me to pray... to pray with me. The future will know fatherhood because you knew you weren't good enough on your own. You turned to the Father of all Fathers for your strength. The future will know the face of fatherhood because of the sons to whom you gave courage. In this world, there are many impostor men who have either forgotten the face of fatherhood, or never saw it to begin with. But your model calls upon them. Challenges them, expects them to rise from immaturity to a life of purpose. Here's to you, Dad. In the future will I know the true meaning of fatherhood because of you.

Prayer/Reflection: Most Generous God, you created this world as a sign of your endless love and desire to share good with all your creatures. Help us to turn from our thoughtless consumption of the earth's resources meant for all, so that we may better serve you by living more simply and caring for those who are most vulnerable to the destruction of our common home. Amen. Pope Francis
