Frequently Asked Questions about Returning to Mass

WELCOME HOME

In the Archdiocese of Cincinnati, public Masses resumed on Monday May 25. The Catholic faithful who reside in the Archdiocese of Cincinnati and all other Catholics in the archdiocese continue to be dispensed from the obligation of attending Sunday Mass. Those who are at risk or fearful that they or their family might become sick are encouraged to stay home and join the Church by viewing live-streamed Masses.

Who should return to Mass?

All Catholics in the Archdiocese of Cincinnati continue to be dispensed from the Sunday and Holy Day obligation. This means it is not a sin to not attend Mass. It also means that a weekday Mass does not “count” for one’s obligation — because there is, presently, no obligation. Those who are at risk, immunocompromised, or fearful that they or their family might become sick are encouraged to stay home and join the Church by viewing live-streamed Masses. While parishes will take every possible precaution and work diligently to employ the best health practices and increased cleaning, there is an assumed risk every time one enters a public space. Anyone who is presently sick, displaying symptoms, or who has recently been exposed to the coronavirus should refrain from attending a public Mass as an exercise in Christian charity and concern for the health and wellbeing of others.

When can I attend Mass?

Parishes have been encouraged to begin celebrating public Masses beginning on May 25, however, this does not guarantee that every parish will be able to at that time. Attendance at Mass will be limited in order to adhere to social distancing requirements, etc. Because the Sunday obligation has been dispensed, Archbishop Schnurr has encouraged people to attend weekday Masses if possible, so as to spread out the church-going population throughout the week. Each parish will determine its own scheduling protocol, and many may require those wishing to attend a Mass to RSVP in advance in order to ensure a safe distance between attendees. Please stay connected with your parish to ensure that you have the most up-to-date information on the Mass schedule (which may differ during this time), information on signing-up, and other helpful information as you prepare to attend Mass. Please note that parishes are encouraged to continue live-streaming Mass out of consideration for those who are unable to attend in-person.
