Marriage, Youth & Family News*Prayers for Teens:

If you've ever wished for just one more day with someone who has died - to have the chance to say "I love you," or hear their laugh, or see their smile - you have an idea of the joy of the widow of Nain experienced when her son is brought back to life. Without a living male relative she would have also become a beggar with no legal right to property, so Jesus restores her financial well-being as well. While different from last week's feeding of the five thousand, this is another incredible miracle, another sign that Jesus is a healing and restoring symbol of God's love for humanity. Write a letter of gratitude to God about someone who is no longer near (perhaps due to death or distance). In the letter thank God for the gift of that person in your life. (Luke 7:11-17 (Sunday Prayers for Teens, LTP 2015-2016))

TRUST: May the God of trust be with you, teaching you to let go into the arms of God all the uncertainties and unknowns in your life. May you bathe securely in the knowledge of God's abiding presence in the NOW. May your focus on the present enable you to be a compassionate presence to each one you meet today and call you to a deep trust of yourself, of others, and of God. May the blessing of TRUST be upon you. Sr. Maxine Shonk, OP

THANK YOU, ST. PATRICK PARISH: It was most uplifting for me and joyous that so many stopped after Mass and at the choir breakfast to say goodbye and express their appreciation on May 22 when I celebrated my last Mass at St. Pat's (at least for now). Since I came as parish administrator last August I have felt very welcomed and supported as I tried to help keep the parish functioning in the midst of Fr. Pat's serious sickness and hospitalization. These months have also been a homecoming since I left as pastor in 1983. This has been a chance to renew acquaintances, meet new families who have moved in since then, and see those who were kids in 1983 now grown up and with their own families. These past nine months have been a time for me to see how vibrant a parish St. Pat's is and to put it on a more solid financial basis.

Since I have been coming back on occasion to fill in for the past three years or so, I have truly been impressed at how well you sing at Mass, better than any other parish I have helped at since my retirement. You truly raise the roof!! Giving due credit to the music director, the music selected has been so appropriate for the liturgical season and celebration.

As St. Pat's moves into the next phase of leadership I think the parish is in good hands with Fr. Landenwicht, and so please give him your support and love the same you gave Fr. Sheridan and me. And please pray for me as I continue to help other parishes. And I will pray for you that God may continue to bless all your endeavors. And if you're ever in the West Milton/Troy area I would love for you to stop in and see me.

Fr. Ken Baker

FOR ALL TRUE FATHERS OUT THERE

by Josua Danis

Unless you have been camped out under a rock for the last few decades, you are probably aware of the fact that fatherhood is in a state of dangerous decline. Data the US Census Bureau in 2011 found that one out of every three children is living away from their biological father. Research indicates that living without a clear father figure leads to an increased likelihood of poverty, depression, child abuse, and future criminal activity. I remember when it used to be so common to hear celebrities complaining about how demanding their father could be. Now, it is far more common to hear about fathers who weren't at all demanding, because they weren't even round. With single parenting still on the rise and the question of gay adoption getting evermore attention, we have to ask the question, will future generations have any social concept of sacrificial fatherhood? But I know they will, because of you, Dad. I believe fatherhood will be known in the future because you put your children ahead of your career, your golf-game, and even your own dreams. You committed to love one woman for the whole of your life, even when it would have been a lot easier to just run away. You gave up your boyhood when duty called upon you to become a man. I believe the future will know the face of fatherhood because you were not willing to settle for just being my friend. You were willing to challenge me... to punish me... to forgive me... teach me right from wrong... to patiently draw the man out of your son and the woman out of your daughter. You were willing to spend time with me when the television would have been more interesting. You were willing to pray... to teach me to pray... to pray with me. The future will know fatherhood because you knew you weren't good enough on your own. You turned to the Father of all Fathers for your strength. The future will know the face of fatherhood because of the sons to whom you gave courage. In this world, there are many impostor men who have either forgotten the face of fatherhood, or never saw it to begin with. But your model calls upon them. Challenges them, expects them to rise from immaturity to a life of purpose. Here's to you, Dad. In the future will I know the true meaning of fatherhood because of you.
